CRANEBROOK BUSH FOOD TRAIL

The bush food trail sits on the Great West Walk and will be planted in Cranebrook near Grey Gums Oval.

Funded by the NSW Government and designed with Muru Mittigar, a local aboriginal organisation and NCNS a Cranebrook community group, the bush food trail will be a space which contributes to the local environment whilst providing shade and opportunities for people to walk, learn and gather on Country.

BUSH FOOD TRAIL – REST AREA

The rest area has been designed with input from the community which highlighted the need for the rest area to be a flexible space which can be used for multiple uses and community groups.

With features such as a drinking fountain, picnic area and shelter, tree planting, educational signage, and a range of bush food plants, the space caters for a range of uses from hikers on the Great West Walk to have a rest, to school and community groups.

This setting provides the opportunity for people to learn and relax in an outdoor setting on Country, viewing the same outlook to the mountains Aboriginal peoples have been enjoying in Cranebrook for over 50,000 years.

The space has been designed to have a low carbon footprint, using local materials on Country which are durable and sensitive to the landscape.

Many thanks to NCNS for their enthusiastic and generous input and guidance into this project, for Muru Mittigar in providing their expertise and NSW Government for funding the project.
